Mr. Blaine Calls at Republican National Heacquarters and Offices Suggestions— Nore Democratic Money Comes In.

Mr Cleveland at the Victoria Hotel did some harm mixing on his own book yesterday. After chate with National Chairman Harrity and Mr. Whitney it was indicated that he would be pleased to see Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, candidate for Congress, against whom Gen. Martin McMahon is so flerce just now. Gen. Mc-Mahon held two offices under the Cleveland Administration. He was a director in the Soldiers' Home at Washington and was United States Marshal for New York. The combined salaries were $10,000 a year. Gen. Sickles, after a long conversation with ex-President

"My call upon Mr. Cleveland had really no special significance. While we had not been closely associated politically, we had been personally on the most friendly terms. I have become convinced that Mr. Cleveland will be elected, and I called upon him to congratulate him upon the most excellent prospects of his campaign. I had heard that Mr. Cleveland had expressed himself as very much pleased at my nomination, and I was glad that the signs of the times so clearly authorized me in congratulating him. I had the pleasure of meeting Judge Crisp, Speaker of the House of Representatives, there and some other old friends, and we had a very pleasant talk all round. The bright prospects of the Democratic party all over gave us agreeable and cheerful subjects for conversation."

Speaker Crisp was at national headquarters.

He is to speak on Long Island and at the Dry Goods Men's Club on Saturday. He is then to go to Paterson and Newark. Mr. Crisp told Mr. Harrity and Mr. Whitney of the meetings he had addressed in Detreit, and concerning the situation in the South and West he said:

"I have been into Alabama. Kentucky, Illinois, and Michigan. I maid three speeches in Afabama. It is toolish for the Democrats to tak as if they are going to lose Alabama. I do not think there is much mere danger of losing Alabama than there was that we would lose Georgia. The situation in the two States is something similar. The Democratis in Alabama are making a very vigorous canvass, and the people of the State are beginning to feel that it would be unwise to desert the Democratic party at this particular time, when it would be only giving the Republican party a new lease of life. I met Mr. Alagelt, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Illinois. He todd me while I was in Chicago that he had no doubt as to his election by a handsome majority, and felt very confident that Mr. Cleveland would also carry the State. In Michigan I was told that we would receive at least seven of the electoral votes.

The daily meetings of the Democratic Figo to Paterson and Newark. Mr. Crisp told the State. In Michigan I was told that we would receive at least seven of the electoral votes."

The daily meetings of the Democratic Finance Committee develop the interesting information that the collections are somewhat better. A check for $5,000 has been received from Samuel D. Babcock. There are still many backward ones, rich Democrats, who contributed in 1884 and 1888. A sub-committee meets frequently in the banking offices of August Belmont on Nassau street.

It is remarked that a number of rich Southern Democrats living in New York and prominent in the Southern Society have not as yet stepped up to the Captain's office. The head-quarters of these Southern Democrats in West Twenty-fourth street, next to the Democratic State Committee's rooms, is now open for business. In the last two weeks of the campaign New York is to have many Southern orators. These gentlemen are adepts in discussing the tariff question.

The event at Mr. Carter's bureau was a visit from ex-Secretary Blaine. The Maine statesman, accompanied by Joseph Manley, went to headquarters and conferred with Mr. Carter, Mr. Hahn, Mr. Kerens, and Cornelius N. Bliss, Mr. Blaine offered many seggestions to the committees as to the management of the campaign in the different States, and to-day at the Fifth Avenue Hotel Mr. Carter and his brethren are to have another talk with the ex-Secretary.

The Republicans have an idea that they are to carry New Jersey. Connecticut, and all the Western States, including the new States.

The Republicans have an idea that they are to carry New Jersey. Connecticut, and all the Western States, including the new States. They admit that the situation in Indianalooks but, but they believe this can be improved in the time remaining before election day. They trankly say, also, that the battle in New York is a mighty tough one, but you can't get one of them to admit that the Democrats will carry New York. It is probable that the ex-Secretary, with Mrs. Blaine, will start for Washington to-morrow.

CHARGED WITH DISLOYALTY.

Democrats After Clark for Accepting Nemination from the Republica

Charges of disloyalty to the Democratic orcanization was last night prepared against Edward J. Clark, the wealthy lime manufacturer in Williamsburgh who received the Republican nomination for Assembly at the Tenth Assembly District Republican Convention in Brooklyn last week. Clark has always been a Democrat, and for the last three years has sought Democratic Assembly honors. He was in the race again this year, but William E. Melody of the Thirteenth ward received the mination. The Assembly district comprises the Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards, and the Democratic Assembly nomination, under ordi-nary circumstances, is equivalent to an elec-tion. Clark is very popular, and as soon as be-was defeated for the nomination the Republi-cans took him up.

was defeated for the nomination the Republicans took him up.
The charges made against Clark last night were made by State Somator F. N. McCarren at the meeting of the Fourteenth Ward Democratic Association held in the rooms of the Seymour Club in Dedford avenue. Senator McCarren said that the object of the Republicans in taking up Clark was to further their own ends in doing all in their power to prevent the Democratic party in the State from electing a United States Somator.

Charities Commissioner Francis Nolan also Spoke, and said that several hundred Democratic office holders of the ward would have to work on election day, instead of smoking cigars, or their places would be filled by men who would work in the interest of the party.

Clark will be served with a copy of the Clark will be served with a copy of the charges, and he has a week in which to appe before the Executive Committee of the organization. It was said last night that Clark would stay in the race, and would probably win.

HE WILL FOR CLEVELAND. Iffect of Spencer Trank's Defection on Saratoga County Republicans. Ballston, Oct. 20.-The announcement by Spencer Track that he will vote for Cleveland their official hellot may be decided adversely is especially distressing to the Republican mais especially distressing to the Republican machine in Saratoga county. He is one of the wealthiest summer residents at the Spa. having probably the finest house there, and has always been depended upon to give liberally in Influence and money to the liepublican county machine. His defection, coming at a time when George West, another opident liepublican, shows what a lepublican manager atyles "damned active indufference." Is very discouraging to the Republican leaders, for the influence of both, as well as their money, has served in previous campaigna to bolster up haiting members of the grand old party, who will now vote independently. Frank Jones, the Postmaster here, who is the shrewdest of the Republicans, said recently that the party under the new apportionment, making the whole county one Assembly district. "had just a chance of electing their Assemblyman." always been depended upon to give liberally

THEY RECOGNIZED MR. CLEVELAND.

The Ex.President Wildly Cheered by the Audience in the Star Theatre Last Night. Ex-President Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland and a lady friend watched Joseph Jefferson play "Rip Van Winkle" at the Star Theatre last night. The party arrived at the theatre two minutes before the curtain rose. Mr.

Cleveland was instantly recognized. The audience broke out in cheers and kept them up for several minutes. Wemen in the orchestra chapped their hands enthusiastically.

The enthusiasm extended to the galleries, and the tumuit of applause became so great that it completely drowned the music of the orchestra. Mr. Gleveland sat in his low smiling upon the applauding theatregoers. As they kept cheering, he limally stood up and lowed several times. Then the audience quieted down and the play went on.

He was besteged on Wednes-day and resterday at the Hotel Buckingham by hundreds of self-appointed walking dele-Whendreds of self-appointed walking delo-gates of the Campaign Strikers' Association, and nundreds of others hunted for him at County headquarters in the Fifth Avenue lister and also silve in the Transace building. AROUSED AGAINST THE FORCE BILL Eastern Consectiont Democrate Listen to

PLAINFIELD, Oct. 20.-Dr. Omer Larne of utnam addressed the Democrats of South Bridge this afternoon, the Force bill being his chief topic. The Doctor is speaking every evening to crowds of French people.

ATTAWAUGAN, Conn., Oct. 20.—The Demoerats and Republicans, opponents of the obnoxious Force bill, are to have a mass meeting to-morrow, to be addressed by the Hon. J. J. Dosmond, U. W. Kennedy, and others.

Putnam, Conn., Oct. 20.—At a Democratic rally in this place to-night Judge W. G. Buteau addressed the French citizens on the square, where a flag was raised. He said the Force bill was the main issue. Dr. Hammond of Dayville followed and said it would be impossible to call the Stars and Stripes the emblem of freedom with an obnexious Force bill in operation. While hundreds were listening to these addresses, the Hon. J. J. Phelan, the man that Bulkeley has kept out of office as Secretary of State by force, spoke in the Opera House to 1,000 people. Col. Graves of Hartford followed. Every mention of Senator Gorman, the great anti-Force bill Senator, was

"THAT SETTLES IT," SAID MR, CROKER. The Interpretation Put by the Tomman

Chief on Tuesday's Registration. Mr. Richard Croker, who is the busiest man in New York just at present directing, as he is, the campaign of Tammany Hall in the matter of every detail to the most triffing. turned from the line of visitors, who were importunately insisting on having just a word with him yesterday afternoon, to say a few words regarding the result of the second day's registration of voters in this city:

"The registration of vesterday settles it." said he, with a smile. "It means that Cleve-land is going to be elected. It looks as though the boys were getting to work."

Mr. Croker said that he was thoroughly satisfled with the showing, and that, to his mind,

Mr. Croker said that he was thoroughly satisfied with the showing, and that, to his mind, it indicated a large probable increase in the Democratic vote.

This orinion was not shared by the leaders of the Ropublean local enupsign. Chairman Jacot M. Patterson said that the returns of registration indicate "nothing unfavorable" to the Republican cause. He thought that the proportionate gains in Republican districts are shown to be quite as great, if not greater, than in the Democratic sections. He pointed to the fact that the registration in the old Nineteenth district was 7.148 on the second day in 1888, and this year was 11.750 in the three districts which were made out of the Ninsteenth. The increase here he considers favorable to the Republicans. The increase in the old Twenty-third he pointed out is about 4.000 over the 1888 registration for the second day. This increase may be considered favorable to the Democrats, he said, but a fair portion of it in the new Twenty-seventh district is Republican. At any rate, he argued, the Republicans were urged as much as the Tammany Hall men to get out and register, and it was fair to presume that they had done it.

Mr. Patterson talked in a mysterious way of his committee having received information of repeating in the registration on the part of Democrats.

This allegation was laughed at at Tammany Hall, where it was said that there are Democrats enough in New York to elect all of the Democracy's candidates without repeating.

THIS IS REAL BUSINESS.

The Police Will Attend to the Illegal Registration, Mr. Davenport,

District Attorney Nicoll was in consultation with Superintendent Byrnes at Police Headquarters yesterday in regard to illegal registration. Since the first day of registration the police Captains have, as usual, and according to the laws of the State of New York, been making a census of the different lodging houses in their precincts. They discovered that the lodging houses were doing an unusually large business, and that most of the lodgers had indicated their intention of voting by registering. Further investigation showed by registering. Further investigation showed that in many of these cases the registration was illegal.

These returns led Superintendent Byrnes to consult with the District Attorney and the usual plans have been perfected by which the police expect to make a haul on election day if there is any attempt made at illegal voting. Many of the lodging houses have already been marked and are under surveillance. The names of the offenders are recorded at Police Headquarters. Warrants will be sworn out in advance for the arrest of these men and policemen will wait for them at the polis. When nee for the arrest on at the polls. When licemen will wait for them at the poils. When the registry is completed it will be arranged alphabetically and by precinets, and copies of it will be placed in the hands of every Captain with instructions to lave it verified. The police know the names of some of the men who are stocking some of the louizing houses.

After his conference with District Attorney Nicoll vesterday afternoon Superintendent Byrnes said:

Byrnes said:
"It is a fact that we have discovered a number of filegal registrations. The police have been investigating the registry rolls very earchily, and the regult of their work will be seen fully, and the result of their ways, on election day."

There is another chapter to the story. In certain cases it is believed that the warrants will be issued to-morrow, so that they may be served on Saturday night, when the colonists, laying received pay for the week, will be in the satoons in the neighborhood of their lodging houses and can be easily arrested.

What Would Be the Effect of Leaving the

When Tursen Sist raised this question, putting it on the ground that neither the County Democracy for the New York Democracy is recognized as part of the Democratic organization of the state by the State Committee, Chairman Charles A. Sackson of the Counties said that they would appeal to the courts if need by the New York Democracy fock the breeaution to nonlineate the Democratic electors, though they did not do it in time to file with the Secretary of Nate, not did they do it at a State Convention. Richard Croker said yesterdry with inference to the matter:

"If I thought those people were not in carnest in their support of the electoral ticket, I should advise that every legal objection be availed of to prevent the riming of the electoral ticket on their tailor."

John Quian, the canadiante of the County Democracy for Mayor, said that he his no doubt that Tammany will through the Police Commissioners, prevent the tounties from having a complete official ballot.

"If they do not print a basiot for us with the names of the electors of it it will hart our local ticket very mach," said he, "but I think they will also find that it will hart the Presidential ticket."

VOTED THROUGH A PIGEONHOLE.

Helfricht Looked Through the Skylight and Saw the Hallot Box Stuffed.

Last night the Democrats of the Third disrict of the Third ward of Newark attempted to nominate a candidate for Assembly. As usual there were two tickets, one for ring candidates, and another supposed to be more indedates, and another supported by pendent. On the latter ticket were the names of Gustav Helfricht and Edward Gillen. The ring men got possession of the pells and votes were being taken through a little pigeonhole were being taken through a little pigeonhole in a partition in a one-story salcon.

Nowady but those in charge of the ballot box could see what was going on in the enclosure, and Gas Helfricht became alarmed. He climbed to the roof the building, and looking down through an open skylight saw the efficiers rapidly writing down names and stuffing the ballot box.

Helfricht shouted out a protest. Two minutes later a man grabbed him from behind.

utes later a man gravbed him from behind, and a rough and tumble light ensued. He fright is a stalwart feilow, and he quickly put his assainnt to rout, but cut his right hand on the other feilow's teeth. After the row the ballot hox was seized by the police, but no arrests were trade.

The ring ticket seemed to have wen by forty and on the court was supplied to the court was real with a court was real so that the court was real so that the court was real so that the court was real so the court was rea six voies when the count was made, but the votes did not tally with the list of names, and listricht and his followers claim to have polled at least 100 more legitimate votes than the other faction. Just what will be done about it could not be told last pixht.

WAS GEN. CATLIN TOO HASTY?

RETIRED ARMY OFFICERS MAY BE ELIGIBLE FOR CONGRESS.

It All Depends on What Constitutes an Office-Our Court of Appeals Has Deelded That a Man on the Retired List Does Not Hold an Office-Gen, Sickles Will Stick and Tammany Will Support Ilim.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 .- The action of Gen' Catlin in declining the nomination for Congress in the Third New York district (Brooklyn) for the reason that, as a retired officer of the army, he believes himself constitutially ineligible for election, has attracted the attention of army officers and politicians in this city, especially as the same questions are presented in the case of Gen. Sickles, who is the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Tenth district (New York city). It is the general opinion in Washington that Gen. Catlin was a little too hasty in reaching his decision, and that Gen. Sickles has taken the right position in refusing to allow the withdrawal of his name.

The office of the Judge Advocate-General of the Army, Gen. Lieber, bore evidence to-day that the topic had been under discussion. On Gen. Lieber's desk were a number of formidable legal volumes, each with a slip of paper marking the pages where decisions bearing upon the rights and privileges of army officers had been rendered. Consequently the General was quite prepared to discuss the matter with a reporter of THE SUN who called upon him.

"The cases of Gen. Catlin and Gen. Sickles stand alone," he said. "so far as I have any knowledge. The difficulty in their way is that there is a constitutional provision which says that 'No person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office.' The question of what constitutes an office has always been a knotty one in the courts. It is the general impression that the point had been decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. This is not true. That court has, in a decision which I have before me. decided that a retired officer is still in the millitary service of the United States. The opinion went no further. It did not determine whether an officer on the retired list held an office."

went no further. It did not determine whether an offleer on the retired list held an offlee."

"But are there not cases bearing directly upon this point."

"Yes, the Court of Claims distinctly held that a retired offleer held an offlee in the case in which Gen. Thomas J. Woods was interested. Then a court in Texas was emphatic in the opinion that a person who held a position on the retired list enjoyed an offlee of honor and trust within the scope of the Constitution of Texas. The most interesting case, however was that of Gen. James L. Duane, who was formerly thief of Engineers in this city, and to whom, after his retirement, the post of Aqueduct Commissioner was offered by the Mayor of New York city. His edigibility to hold this office was questioned, but the New York Court of Appeals, which is the highest authority in that state and good authority anywhere, distinctly and at great detail laid down the principle that a may on the retired list did not hold an office. This decision is particularly full and interesting. It shows that Gen. Duane was legislated out of office by act of Congress when he was Git; that the office of Chief of Engineers which he held was certainly variated upon his retirement and its duties assumed by another person, and that the term 'Brigadier-General, which he carried with him into retirement, was not descriptive of any office which he holds or then held.' This decision says, too, that 'the enjoyment of a retired army officer of special advantages is easily confounded with the possession and enjoyment of the office itself, but they are, in fact, far different and distinct things.

"Does the case of Gen. Rosecrans have any bearing?"

"Not in the least. Gen. Rosecrans holds a civil office." He is not a member of the House fact, far different and distinct things.

"Does the case of Gen. Rosecrans have any bearing?"

"Not in the least. Gen. Rosecrans holds a civil office. He is not a member of the House nor a candidate for Congress. His right to hold an office in the Treasury Department and be on the retired list at the same time is not questioned."

Mr. Henry H. Smith, compiler and editor of the Digost and Manual of the House of Representatives, and whose long experience as journal clerk of the House of Representatives has given him familiarity with matters affecting Congress, says:

"The polat made by Gen. Catlin is not well taken, as the question of the eligibility of army officers serving in Congress has been settled, the House being the judge of the qualifications of its own members. This very question arose during the war in the cases of Gen. Gartheld, Gen. Frank Blair, Gen. Rousseau, and two or three others elected to seats in the House, and was decided in favor of their retention of their seats, although they held commissions in the army of the United States at the time. They were in the volunteer army, of course, but the application is the same as though they were in the regular army."

Gen. Rosecrans, who holds his rank on the retired list of the army and at the same time is legistrar of the United States Treasury, said this morning that the United States Freasury, said this morning that the United States Superme Court had recently decided that the retired officers of the army were not subject to orders from the President unless they expressly volunteered for service.

GEN. SICKLES WILL STICK, and Tammany Hall Will Support Him for Congress in the Tenth,

Those two Democratic war veterans, Gen. Daniel F. Sickles and Gen. Martin T. Me-Malion, are still disputing who shall represent the Tenth district in the next Congress. Gen. Sickles has the Tammany nomination, which Gen. McMahon wanted, and Gen. McMahon says that Gen. Sickles is ineligible, because he is on the retired list of the army. "Rats!" said Gen. Sickles vesterday, and he went on to explain that he is not an officeholder under the menning of the law, but the holder of an annuity in the shape of retired pay. He also cites a case where it has been decided that a retired army officer may hold decided that a retired army oneer may hold an executive place in the toversment.

"Bosh," retorts toeb, MeMahon. "The Constitution says nothing about other places than legislative, and here's an army officer who wants to defy the Constitution. If he don't get out I shall run against him. I will be named as an independent bemoerat and be endorsed by the County Democracy."

E. Ellery Anderson has telegraphed to Congressman John De Witt Warner, who is stumping the State, asking him to decline the nomination of the County Democracy in the Tenth district as he has the Tammany Hall nomination in the Thirteenth.

Bielard troker said yesterday of the controversy between Gens Sickies and McMalon: Mahon:
"Geni, Sickles will stand for Congress in the Tentin district, and Tammany Hall will suphegarding the suggestion that Gen. Me-ahon night bolt his party in the State Hegarding the Suggeston that ten, Me Mahon night tolt his party in the State Senate, where his vote is needed very much, Mr. Croker said "We will look for Senator McMahon to vote on party questions in the Senate as would any other Immorrat. The suggestion that he may not will not have any hearing on Tammany Hall's support of Gen. Sickles."

CONGRESSMAN RAYNER ON THE STUMP. Preparing for His Speech at the Coming Den occutic Rally in Brooklyn,

Washington, Oct. 20.-Congressman Barner of Maryland was here to-day collecting data for his speech at the coming Democrat rally in Brooklyn on the 26th inst. Mr. Rayner is one of the most gifted orators now in the House of Representatives, ranking with Bourke Cockran, Col. John R. Fellows, and the silverhalred Breckinridge of Kentucky. He has been in demand during the present campaign he his colleagues, who are familiar with his ability to entertain and enlighten a crowd on the public issues involved in the pending election. To-day he received an invitation from Mr. Croker to deliver a speech at the Tammany demonstration on the 25th, but he will have to decline, as he is booked for speeches at Newark and Trenton on that date. Mr. Bayner spoke with Gen. Stevenson, the Vice-Presidential candidate, at Richmond and other points in Virginia and West Virginia, and he declares that there need be no fear about the South not remaining solid for the mout the South not remaining solid for the Democratic tieset.

"The Force bill," said he, "has solidified the South, and the people who attend the public meetings there do not care to hear the stump speakers talk about anything else. They don't want to listen to tariff speeches, and the speakers who are able to give them a vigorous anti-Force bill speech are assured of an enthusiastic reception. In Belaware and New Jersey, where I also made a series of speeches, you meet another class of people. At Wilmington I spoke at a meeting presided over by Senator Gray. A large portion of the crowd was made up of men who work in the shippards. They demanded tariff arguments, for they declare that the high tariff has almost dostroyed the shipbaiding interests of Delaware, no matter what its effect may have been elsewhere."

On the general outlook Mr. Rayner says he is condident of Democratic success, and he bases his judgment upon the sentiment of the people he met in the various States he has visited. At Brooklyn he will again appear in company with Gen. Stevenson, and on that occasion will give some attention to the financial question, with which he is entirely familiar. He was one of the conspicuous opponents of free silver in Congress has winter, for, in addition to being a stubborn and determined fighter, his eloquence is orthedramatic type, which has won for him the name of being the best stump speaker in Maryland.

SMELLED OUT THE ENEMY.

ANTI-GLEASON ARTIST NABBED BY A GLEASON POLICEMAN.

The Officer Detected the Odor of Fresh Faint and Followed the Big Mayor's Viller by the Condition of the Sizas. The artist of the Jefferson Democrats of Long Island City, who has been going about with a pot of paint and a big stencil plate transferring Mayor Glesson's sidewalk signs into boomerangs, was taken into custody while on his rounds about 4 o'clock yesterday morning by one of the Mayor's policemen in citizen's dress. He is John P. Coyle, janitor of the Jefferson Club house, and he is accused of stencilling the sidewalks without a permit. The policeman took him to the station iouse, where his artist's materials were confiscated and he was locked up. Then the reserves in the station were hustled out to undo the mischlef, but a judicious amount of quick drier used by Coyle made their mission fruitess. The signs had already become a part of the stones on which they were painted. What was worse, the paint used was of a bright orange color, that usude more conspicuous the headline to the text that followed.

Mayor Gleason was the first to use the side-walks for educational purposes. He had them labelled from one end to the other end with big signs in red and black paint, which read:

FOR MAYOUT P. J. GLEASON.

The work was done in the still hours of night, and the stened men were partial to addewalks in front of houses occupied by opponents of the big Mayor. When his opponents got tired of trying to serub these signs out of existence, they began to do some painting on their own account. The mirth of the tileasenites was changed to dismay when they awoke to find their signs reading: their signs reading:

> THIRD TERM FOR MAYOR P. J. GLE 1808.

Then the Gleason men were forced to do some scrubbing, and when they got through the signs read:

THURB TERM FOR MAYOR P. J. GLEASON.

But the opposition stenell man was not to be downed. He had a larger stened made, with the otherwises words all in one line, some-thing like this:

While the policeman who was detailed to guard the Mayor's signs from further desceration was on his rounds early vestering morning he smelled fresh paint, and on examining the sidewalk was horrilled to find that the enemy's stenell artists were at work again. By testing the wetness of the paint on the different signs he soon ascertained the direction in which the sign men were travelling, and nabled Corly just as he was giving the fluishing touches to Gleason's stronghold in Borden avenue, near the Thirty fourth street ferry.

When arraigned in Justice kavanagh's court several hours later Coyle hung the sign in front of the Justice's desk, facing the crowded court room, but it was quickly taken down, and when he was released on his own recognizance to appear on Tuesday of next week, the stenell had disappeared.

Lawyers in the Jefferson Club assert that there is no such thing as obtaining a permit to naint the sidewalks, and say they ince mit Lawyers in the decease of the assect that there is no such thing as obtaining a permit to paint the sidewalks, and say they i a e just as much right to place their steneils there as Mayor Gleason has. But the end is not yet, and it is said that both sides are having a lot of startling steneils manufactured.

LAST PARADE UNDER GEORGE III. The Brouge Sta'us of John Watts Unvelled

The statue of John Watts, the last royal Recorder of New York, was put on its pedestal in Trinity churchyard on Wednesday, and unveiled without any formality. It stands at the south of the church, about fifty feet from the fence on Brondway. The statue, which is of bronze, is of heroic size, and represents the Recorder in his judicial robes and wearing the ring that was the token of his authority. The face of the statue is stern, as bellis a Recorder, and the towering figure is the most striking object in that part of the churchyard.

The statue owes its origin to Gen. J. Watts de Peysier, a grandson of the original. It owes its place in T inity churchyard not to the fact that the original was the last royal Recorder of New York, but because, as the founder of the Leake and Watts Orphan Home, he was a benefactor of his kind. John G. Leake, a wealthy New Yorker, left his fortune to Mr. Watts's son Robert, on condition that he took the name of Leake. Otherwise the money was to found an orphan home. Robert dying, his father inherited part of the property thus bequeathed, which he devoted to the alternative purpose of Mr. Leake. The asylum is now in South Yonkers, and its original site is the site of the new Fpiscopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, John Watts was born in 1749 and died in 1831. He served for three terms as Speaker of the New York Assembly. From 1763 to 1765 the was a member of Congress, and from 1802 to 1808 he was a Judge in Westchester county. He is buried in a vault in Trinity churchyard. cial robes and wearing the ring that

About two weeks ago a smooth-faced young man, who said he was Harold McLaughlin of Philadelphia, applied to Nathial Horner, a boarding house keeper at 151 West Fifteenth street, for a room. McLaughlin had only been in the house a short time when the other boarders began to complain that articles of value were missing from their rooms. Mr. Horner also discovered that $50 had been abstructed from a roll of bills which he kept in his trunk.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Baker, who is also a boarder at 151, had a little experience. "I went up to my room about 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon," Miss Baker said vesterday, "and was surprised to find my door, which is furnished with a Yale lock, fastened. as I generally leave it open when I go out. I did not notice anything out of order in the did not notice anything out of order in the room, and proceeded to take a sponge bath and make my toolot, which took me nearly an hour. Then I lay down on the lounge to get a few minates' rest before dinner. The lounge is in such a position that I could see under my bed, and something there attracted my attention. I waited just long enough to see that there was a pair of feet clad in black stockings. I also caught a glimpse of a white shirt sleeve. These things had never been under my bed before, and they frightened me. I rushed into the hall and called for Mr. Horner. As I left my froom some one ran past me and up

Mr. Horner said: "McLaughlin, whose father is a conductor on the Pennsylvenia liailroad, came to me about two weeks ago and wanted a room. He said he was going to work for Limpincott & Co. He seemed to be a nice young man, and for a while I ddn't suspect anything wrong of him. Then things in the house began to be missed. One gentleman lost a diamond pln, another a pair of field glasses, and some one stole $50 from my trunk. I noticed that my new hoarder spent most of the day about the house, but we had no proof against him. On Wednesday night, though, we got him, when Miss Baker ran into the hall and called out that there was a man under her bed, and then fainted. I went up to McLaughlin's room and found him in his shirt sleeves and stocking feet, lying on the bed. I found a pin beleaning to all:s Baker under his mattress. The detective found the other articles in a pawn shop, but guess I've lost my $50. McLaughlin confessed that he had taken the things. I have written to his father. I guess the young man will be locked up for a long time. I hope so, any way.

Yesterday merning McLaughlin, who is 17 yours old, was arraigned at Jefferson Market Police Court, and Justice Ryan held him for examination.

Stray Cats are its Particular Charges, but Let Cruet Cabbles Beware, Matthew Carney was arraigned in the Special Sessions Court yesterday, charged with cruelty to animals. The complainant was Mrs. Grace Devide of 236 West Twenty-first atreet. "On the night of Oct. 12." said Mrs. Dovide. "in company with two other ladies, I was about to engage the defendant to drive me home. when I observed that the man's horse, attached to a coupé, was suffering from a sore on the back. I spoke to the man about it, telling him that the horse should not be at work. He reviled me, using disgusting language. We complained to a policeman, who arrested him. Several gentlemen who came out of the Hoff-man House, near which the affair occurred, approved of the arrest, and accompanied us to the statten house where we made the formal

Counsel for Carney here told the Court that the affair occurred at 4 o'clock in the morning, and the prisoner added: "They had a lot of in cans wid em."

"Fermit me, your Honors," said Mrs. Devide, to explain. "We are members of the Midnight Eand of the Land of Merce. Our object is to feed and care for stray and homeless cats. There are thousands of these poor creatures who never show their faces except letween 2 and 4 o'clock in the morning, when wicked boys are asleep and cruel men are too drunk to use their canes. The feed we carry in taskets and tin cans when on our errand of meter. We also take enting, which is to the cat what wine is to the delicate man or woman. Then, we have a Home for Friendless Cats, but we are ordiged to keep its location a secret to prevent bad boys from throwing poisoned ment to our little ones, as was done at our former home.

After this explanation the Court promptly found Carney guilty, and sentenced him to a fine of $10.

Do Syracuse Girls Smoke Cigarettes? SYRACUSE, Get. 19t. The local branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union recenty passed resolutions declaring that the habit of smoking eigerettes is increasing at an glarming pace among young girls in this city, and they appealed to preachers, Sunday school superintendents, and teachers to assist school superintendents, and teachers to assist in showing the evils of the practice.
